As announced to the ASX on 18 November 2014, 1-Page has created an employee referral engine for enterprises to leverage the largest professional networking service with more than 820 million profiles, through the acquisition of BranchOut.

Employee referrals are a highly effective strategy in sourcing talent and First Republic Bank will now enhance its talent acquisition efforts, saving it time, money and expanding their reach.

First Republic Bank listed on the New York Stock Exchange is one of the largest and most profitable banks in the US, with a market capitalisation of nearly US$7 billion. First Republic Bank has 66 offices across the US and has grown significantly over the past four years, increasing its number of employees by 40% (from 1700 in 2011 to 2400 in 2013).

The 1-Page Referral Engine allows enterprises to discover talent from their own employees' connections instantly and automate the referral process with a highly targeted approach.

1-Page Managing Director and CEO Joanna Riley-Weidenmiller said: *"First Republic Bank's utilisation of the 1-Page Referral Engine is a strong endorsement of the exciting opportunity we have created in discovering talent from within, using their own employee connections to source candidates.
