ICOLLEGE AGREES TO PARTNERSHIP WITH CARA

iCollege is pleased to announce a partnership between a Group member company - Celtic Training & Consultancy Pty Ltd and Cara, the Community Accommodation & Respite Agency.

The training partnership will provide Cara, one of South Australia's largest disability services organisations, with approximately 150 qualified disability support staff each year for their metropolitan Adelaide and regional community and residential facilities.

Celtic Training CEO David Leigh-Ewers says: "We have worked with Cara before, this partnership will not only consolidate the relationship but will also allow us to play a significant role in collaborating within the industry sector as National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) is established. It will also enable us to provide training opportunities to reskill and upskill Cara's 700 existing staff."

Cara Chief Executive Liz Cohen says: "At Cara our staff are proud to work with more than 600 children and adults living with disability, supporting them to grow as individuals. We value training and professional development for our staff, especially as we grow to meet our clients' developing needs under the NDIS, and we look forward to working with Celtic Training to deliver this through the partnership."

The initial period of the partnership is three years.
