ICOLLEGE BASEBALL PROGRAM COMMENCES IN WA

HIGHLIGHTS:

- Diploma of Sport Development (SIS50612) Baseball commenced in WA
- Initial cohort of 10 with a further intake of 25 scheduled for late November
- Program headed by Rich Daly
- Head Coach Dean White retired professional baseball player
- Further expansion across several sporting disciplines

iCollege is excited to confirm that the second group of Diploma of Sport Development participants has begun the program this week. Both male and female aspiring baseball players have commenced a 9 month training and education program under the guidance of several talented instructors.

The iCollege leadership team is pleased to introduce both Rich Daly and Dean White as the newest members of the Sport Development Diploma program.

Rich Daly is a retired professional cricketer and career strength and conditioning coach and fitness trainer with extensive experience at the highest levels of sports performance. His baseball experience include Athlete Development Manager for Baseball WA, S&C Coach for Perth Heat and the U19s Australian team and professional development at spring training including with the New York Yankees & Boston Red Sox.

Head coach Dean White brings his own pro-ball experience from his playing days with the Atlanta Braves, Australian team and Perth Heat and an extensive coaching background from Little league through to high performance athletes. In his roles as Chairman of Australia Womens baseball and past program manager positions Dean brings invaluable knowledge of the game and its development pathways.

iCollege welcomes the newest members of the team and looks forward to the baseball program growing significantly over the coming months.
