Update of Pending Judgment

Sydney, Australia – Global software company Nuix (‘the Company’, ASX: NXL) advises that further to Nuix’s announcement on 27 June 2022, the Federal Court of Australia has indicated that it will deliver judgment in respect of the claim by Mr Edward Sheehy at 9.30am on Tuesday, 7 February 2023.

Nuix will consider the judgment carefully once it is obtained and will provide further information to the market as to its effect as soon as practical following the judgment.

Brief background to the dispute

As previously disclosed, former CEO of Nuix, Mr Edward Sheehy, filed proceedings in the Federal Court of Australia in October 2020 claiming, among other things, that he validly exercised 453,273 options in Nuix in January 2020 which entitled him to be issued with 22,663,650 shares. Mr Sheehy further claimed that in the event he had been issued with the 22,663,650 shares that he would have sold those shares and he lost the opportunity to sell them which caused him to suffer damage. Mr Sheehy has sought declarations as to his entitlements and an award of damages of up to $183 million plus interest.

Nuix denies Mr Sheehy’s allegations and, in particular, that he is entitled to any award of damages.

Nuix is unable to make any further comments on the prospective judgment at this time.

This announcement has been authorised by the Board of Nuix.
