Transurban Group today announces the Board's decision to appoint Michelle Jablko, as the Group's Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director (CEO). She will replace Scott Charlton as CEO following the Group's Annual General Meetings on 19 October 2023.

Chairman Craig Drummond said: "I am delighted that the Board has appointed a CEO of Michelle's calibre, following an extensive global search. Michelle brings a balance of strong leadership, financial acumen, experience in complex transactions, a focus on building relationships with all stakeholders and a sharp strategic mind.

"I have no doubt that this combination of skills and experience will mean that she is an excellent leader for this next phase of growth for Transurban."

Ms Jablko joined Transurban in early 2021 as Chief Financial Officer (CFO). She has had a broad portfolio of responsibilities while also playing a strategic role in major projects and transactions. Prior to joining Transurban, Ms Jablko was CFO at ANZ for just under five years, following almost 20 years of experience in investment banking and commercial law.

Mr Drummond said it's a testament to Mr Charlton that he positioned the Group to appoint its first internal CEO successor. "Scott has had a transformational impact on our business over the past 11 years. His personal drive and dedication has been central to the growth in the business and has created value for all stakeholders."

Mr Charlton said Ms Jablko shares his passion for the industry. "Michelle is a fantastic appointment and will continue to build on the Group's success and high-performing culture. The business will be in great hands."

Ms Jablko said: "I'm thrilled to be appointed as Transurban's next CEO and I don't take the trust placed in me by the Board lightly. Scott is handing over a great business, with a team of people who are passionate about the tangible impact we have in our cities in both Australia and North America, and delivering for our 10 million customers, our partners and investors. I look forward to building on this to follow the needs of our cities as they continue to grow."

Ms Jablko is based in Melbourne. An announcement regarding a replacement CFO will be made in due course.
