Aussie Broadband Group announces executive leadership changes

Aussie Broadband Limited (ASX:ABB) today announces changes to its Group and executive leadership team at Aussie Broadband.

John Reisinger, Co-founder and Chief Technology Officer has advised of his plan to retire from Aussie Broadband, effective 31 October 2024. Over the past 12 months, John's priorities have transitioned to Brad Parker, Chief Infrastructure Engineering Officer. Brad's title will change to Chief Technology Officer upon John's retirement.

Andy Giles Knopp, who joined Aussie Broadband as interim Chief Financial Officer (CFO), has been appointed Group CFO effective 26 August 2024. Andy brings a wealth of knowledge and strategic thinking from leading large and complex organisations in the public and private sectors, including the telecommunications sector.

Co-founder and Group Managing Director, Phillip Britt says:

"I have had the privilege of working alongside John for the past 20 years. From a start up that began in our lounge room, to listing on the ASX in 2020, to a billion-dollar revenue business with 1,800 employees today, he has been a steadfast business partner and friend who has helped drive Aussie's success.

"John's contribution to Aussie's growth and evolution can not be underestimated, and we are extremely grateful for all that he has done over the past 20 years. We wish him well as he steps back to spend time with his family.

"I'm pleased to welcome Andy as a permanent member of the Aussie executive leadership team. His appointment completes a high-calibre team that is tasked with delivering on our strategic growth priorities and I look forward to his ongoing contribution."
