7.4	A listed entity should disclose whether it has any material exposure to environmental and social risks and, if it does, how is manages or intends to manage those risks.	✓	The Company has material exposure to the following environmental and social risks: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Occupational Health and Safety – the nature of exploration, construction, and mining operations gives rise to many safety risks. Regis prioritises the safety and well-being of its workforce and continues to improve its existing safety risk management system to identify, report, analyse and manage safety risks. This includes managing the risks relating to the psychosocial wellbeing of our workforce and creating a workforce free of harassment and bullying. • Operations - Regis recognises that managing the needs and expectations of shareholders, communities, governments, employees and other stakeholders is key to ensuring our social license to operate. The Regis' Values, company policies and procedures consider the impacts of our operations in areas that include but are not limited to: access to land, water management, waste management and employment practices that include expectations to protect human rights including the elimination of slavery and the use of child labour. • Exploration and Project Development – Activities associated with the Company's exploration and project development are carried out considering the potential impacts on local communities, as well as traditional owners past and present. Regis works in accordance with regulatory requirements, Company policies and procedures to ensure appropriate consideration, identification and management of heritage associated with traditional owners.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Community Relations: The Company has a social responsibility to identify all stakeholders within its community who may be affected by its operations directly or indirectly. A failure to appropriately manage local community stakeholder relations may lead to dissatisfaction that may have the potential to disrupt production and exploration activities. The Company is committed to building and sustaining mutually beneficial relationships within the community by maintaining a high level of consultation with stakeholders and respecting and promoting human and property rights and sites of heritage or cultural significance. • Environmental – The Company is committed to the effective environmental management of all of its activities. The Company recognises that mining and exploration activities are associated with a range of potential environmental impacts and has developed the culture and procedures to maintain the integrity of the environment associated with these activities. The Company ensures it complies with all applicable legislation and operating conditions on a sustainable basis and applies a systematic approach to identifying environmental risks and employs practices that minimise environmental impact and prevent environmental damage. Where appropriate the Company has made a cost provision with respect to rehabilitation of outstanding environmental disturbance from past operations and has environmental bonding obligations against disturbance from future operations. • Climate Change - Regis recognises that climate change risks may adversely impact its business in many ways including but not limited to; demand for our product, increased regulation, shareholder and community activism, availability of labour, increased costs of capital/funding, increased capital and operating costs and extreme weather events such as bushfires, storms, flooding and droughts. Regis has completed considerable work to further understand and quantify these risks and has developed mitigation and reduction strategies. This objective will involve ongoing study and projects to deliver the planned improvements including assessment and management of transition risks. Further details on the Company’s strategies to manage climate risk are contained in the Sustainability Report 2024. • Regis is committed to conducting its business as a reliable corporate citizen managing its taxes in a prudent and sustainable manner and ensuring it complies with all its tax obligations responsibly. Regis ensures that tax risks are considered as a part of the overall commercial assessment of any transaction, complies with all tax compliance obligations and payments in a timely manner, takes an approach to the assessment and management of tax risk with a view to always being considered by tax authorities as low or medium risk, does not participate in tax evasion or to facilitate the evasion of tax by a third party in any way (including avoiding aggressive tax planning and use of artificial or abnormal tax structures in tax havens or elsewhere that are intended for tax avoidance). Regis aims to foster constructive, professional and transparent relationships with the Australian Tax Office based on concepts
