Ventia awarded new Defence Clothing Services contract

Ventia (ASX:VNT) has been awarded a new contract providing service and support for clothing capability to the Australian Defence Force valued at approximately $935 million. The contract will commence May 2026 for an initial term of seven years with options to extend for up to a further 13 years. The new contract is designed to provide more efficient and effective clothing capability and aims to provide a contemporary customer experience for Defence personnel.

The existing National Clothing Stores Services contract has been extended to ensure continuity of service during the transition to the new Defence Clothing Services contract.

The new contract will see Ventia partner with experienced Australian organisations to deliver clothing design and supply, warehousing, distribution, and clothing store services. Ventia will be the single industry partner accountable to Defence. This approach ensures specialist expertise is applied to all relevant scope requirements, while providing a compelling value proposition for the Commonwealth.

Dean Banks, Ventia's Managing Director and Group Chief Executive Officer said, "Ventia is proud of its 36-year history supporting the Australian Defence Force. This new contract is a strong endorsement of our growing presence and capability in the Australian Defence market. It reinforces our position as a trusted partner and highlights the depth of our expertise to deliver integrated solutions in complex environments."

This announcement has been authorised for release by the Ventia Board.
