Nuix Limited (ASX: NXL) – Request for Trading Halt

Nuix Limited (ASX: NXL) (Nuix) requests a trading halt to take effect immediately on 23 April 2026 in respect of Nuix's ordinary shares.

Reasons for the trading halt

- 1 Nuix has been advised that the Federal Court of Australia will deliver judgment in proceedings to which Nuix is a party at 4:00pm AEST on 23 April 2026. The outcome of the proceeding and its potential effect on Nuix are potentially material to the value of Nuix's securities.
- 2 Given that judgment is scheduled to be delivered at 4:00pm AEST and that the ASX closing single price auction extends to 4:21pm AEST, there is a risk that trading in Nuix securities in both (a) the final period of normal trading and (b) in the closing auction on 23 April 2026, may occur while there is an asymmetry of information available to the market as to the outcome of the proceeding.
- 3 Nuix will also require time following delivery of the judgment to review its terms and prepare a considered announcement to the market.
- 4 Nuix requests that the trading halt remain in place until the earlier of:
 - (a) the commencement of normal trading on Friday 24 April 2026; or
 - (b) such earlier time as the company may request following any announcement by it as to the effect of the judgment.
- 5 Nuix is not aware of:
 - a. any reason why the trading halt should not be granted; or
 - b. any other information necessary to inform the market about the trading halt.

Background to the Federal Court proceeding

- 6 As previously disclosed, on 28 September 2022 the Australian Securities and Investment Commission filed proceedings in the Federal Court of Australia against Nuix and its directors at the time of the IPO.

- 7 ASIC alleges that aspects of the Company's market disclosure in the period January 2021 to April 2021 contravened provisions of the Corporations Act and ASIC Act and that the relevant directors breached their duties in respect of that disclosure. In particular, ASIC claims that the Company's disclosure of its Annualised Contract Value and statutory revenue performance as against its forecasts was deficient. ASIC seeks declarations in respect of the alleged contraventions, pecuniary penalties against Nuix and pecuniary penalties and disqualification orders against the relevant directors.
- 8 Nuix denies ASIC's allegations and the allegations made against the director defendants.
- 9 The matter proceeded to a final hearing from 20 November 2023 to 15 December 2023.

Yours sincerely
